film festival

Nene Humphrey's work Loculus is featured in Emmy-nominated director Catherine Gund's film AGGIE, a documentary about art, justice, and her mother, art collector and philanthropist, Agnes Gund.

AGGIE had its World Premiere in February at the Sundance Film Festival 2020 in Park City Utah. The film traces art as the animating force throughout Aggie's passions, projects, and philanthropy over the years. Gund uses a carefully curated selection of artworks, from Aggie's collection to present viewers with a new way of feeling and looking at contemporary visual art.
